

GREAT NEWS FOR THE ELT PROFESSION!

Teachers, Trainee Teachers & others working as teachers can now have international recognition for their teaching

CERTIFICATE FOR INTERNATIONAL TEACHERS OF ENGLISH
(C.I.T.E.) (VERY) YOUNG LEARNERS TESTS & GENERAL TRAINING TEST

What is C.I.T.E.?

The test is designed to give competent teachers of English, who may or may not have any other English teaching qualifications, a chance to obtain international recognition for their language skills, knowledge and experience.

Unlike other tests for English teachers, the C.I.T.E. test is very practical in focus, and it assesses the candidates' performance both receptively as well as productively.

Who is C.I.T.E. for?

There are no official entry qualifications for the C.I.T.E. test.

The test can equally be taken by:

- Teachers who are currently teaching English.
- Translators who are currently teaching English.
- Students who are planning to teach English, and have gained knowledge of classroom language and practice through study.
- High School mathematics/ physics/ biology teachers who find themselves timetabled with some lessons of English a week.
- Primary school teachers who have been co-opted into teaching English under a government initiative.
- English teachers whose original qualification concentrated on outdated literature and who now want to have a focus for updating their classroom language skills.

The C.I.T.E. test recognises that teaching (very) young learners and teaching higher-level, older learners may require different language levels, theory and practice. For this reason, candidates are offered THREE versions of the test: C.I.T.E. (Very Young Learners), C.I.T.E. (Young Learners) and C.I.T.E. (General Training).

What level of English do you need?

You need the level of English required to be a competent teacher.

Recommended level of English:

C.I.T.E. (VYL): at least B1 (CEFR) (Anglia Intermediate).

C.I.T.E. (YL): at least B2 (CEFR) (Anglia Advanced).

C.I.T.E. (GT): at least C1 (CEFR) (Anglia Proficiency).

The English required in the C.I.T.E. test is also related to knowledge of grammatical terms and functions in English, together with classroom language in English.

What preparation is necessary for the examination?

To a certain extent, you must make your own judgement on this by looking at the overview of the test, test specifications and sample papers. Although your representative may be able to indicate where you can find a suitable local course or study group, there is no set course either in English or in teaching which leads to the C.I.T.E. test.
